

Tip_9 – Don't call them requests, you are sending requirements!

Have you been making requests to your suppliers for material declarations? Yes is the expected answer. The process can be enhanced simply by calling this requirements, not just a request. This sounds like a simple difference but it sets a different importance to you need for a timely response. After all you do require this data, so why not just say so?

This tip was provided by Amy L. Thanks for helping us to help others be more effective.

Provided by RoHS Ready LLC, at RoHS@RoHSReady.org, published 5/6/2015